Princess Di ALMOST MARRIED THIS GUY

Diana first met the heart surgeon at London's Royal Brompton Hospital (far left). Pakistani-born Khan has since packed on the pounds

IT's hard to believe that this lumbering hulk hauling out the trash once captured the heart of the most desirable woman on the planet!

In the summer of 1995, stunning Princess Diana was swept off her feet by Pakistani-born heart surgeon Dr. Hasnat Khan. But as these photos show, the former hunk has packed on the pounds since then.

It's a far cry from the dashing doc that Diana called "Mr. Wonderful." She was so smitten by Khan that she once turned up at his hospital completely naked except for a long fur coat, according to royal biographer Nicholas Davies.

The new "Diana" movie stars Naveen Andrews as Hasnat Khan and Naomi Watts as The People's Princess

Diana flipped for Khan while visiting a heart patient friend at London's Royal Brompton Hospital. Author Kate Snell says Diana called Khan "drop-dead gorgeous" and gushed that their meeting was "karmic." But the forbidden relationship was destined to fizzle because Khan believed the public attention would be unbearable and, besides that, his family disapproved of Diana because she was not Muslim.

"She wanted to marry him," says Diana's close friend Rosa Monckton, adding that Khan loved Diana too. "What he couldn't cope with was the Princess of Wales...and all the baggage that she brought with her."

KHAN, NOW 54 AND WORKING as a cardiology consultant at a London hospital, also has problems with the new movie "Diana." Starring Naomi Watts as the princess and "Lost" star Naveen Andrews as Khan, the film chronicles their two-year romance. But producers' efforts to gain the doctor's support fell on deaf ears.

"I have never given my approval for it," said Khan, who is single after an arranged marriage ended in divorce. He also blasted the film as "completely wrong" and based on "cruel lies."

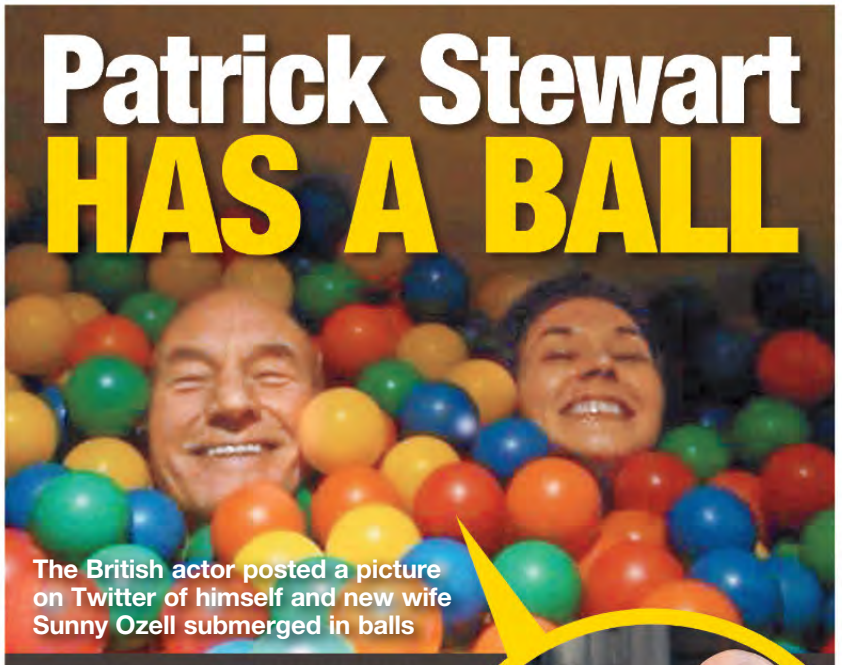
Patrick Stewart HAS A BALL



The British actor posted a picture on Twitter of himself and new wife Sunny Ozell submerged in balls

'Trek' star ties knot with singer half his age

MARRIED life's a ball for Patrick Stewart!

The 73-year-old British actor – best known as Capt. Jean-Luc Picard on "Star Trek: The Next Generation" – has tied the knot with his third wife, 35-year-old jazz singer Sunny Ozell.

Stewart announced his new status by posting a picture on Twitter on Sept. 8 of the couple submerged in a pit full of multicolored plastic balls with the caption: "Yes, married."

THE CHROME-DOMED GROOM also stars as Prof. Charles Xavier in the "X-Men" movie franchise, and his close pal and "X-Men" co-star, Sir Ian McKellen, announced on his Facebook page that he'd officiated at the wedding ceremony.

Sir Ian McKellen officiated

"Lord of the Rings" star McKellen shared a picture of himself wearing a black T-shirt that said "Minister" and holding his Doctor of Divinity certificate. "I did my part," he wrote.

Stewart has two adult children with his first wife Sheila Falconer, and he divorced TV producer Wendy Neuss, who's 14 years his junior, in 2004 after four years.

He began dating Ozell in 2008 while performing in "Macbeth" at the Brooklyn Academy of Music, and the two reportedly got engaged this past March. The first time Stewart publicly mentioned their romance, he referred to Ozell only as "a delightful girlfriend who happens to live in New York."

Before falling for Ozell, Stewart romanced British actress Lisa Dillon, who's also almost 40 years his junior.

The newlyweds reportedly took off on a honeymoon, but Stewart will be back at work soon. He's set to star in two upcoming Broadway plays.

Couple's kids HIT HARD BY DEVASTATING SEPARATION

"DADDY, don't go!" Heartbroken over his parents' crumbling marriage, that's what 13-year-old Dylan Douglas begged his famous father Michael right before the "Wall Street" actor was spotted hauling luggage out of the family's New York City home on Sept. 5, say sources.

Michael assured Dylan that he was only going to be away from him for a short time and that he would see him again soon.

He told him: "Son, no matter what happens, I would never leave you. Never!"

Michael's abrupt departure came just four days after he publicly insisted that he and wife Catherine Zeta-Jones were "fine." But sources tell The ENQUIRER things have gotten so explosive between Michael, 68, and Catherine, 43, that the two can't even stand to be in the same place at the same time.

Catherine was spotted puffing on a cigarette on her way to church in Greenwich, Conn., recently, looking haggard and stressed. But a close source says it's Dylan who is taking the split the hardest.

Kirk Douglas

"He doesn't quite understand everything that's going on right now," the source noted.

"Both Michael and Catherine have tried to explain to him that they're 'taking a break' from one another.

"But he keeps asking 'why' – and he wants to know when they'll be back together. Michael just shakes his head sadly and says, 'I don't know, son.'"

As The ENQUIRER reported in our Aug. 26 issue, Catherine has put her husband on notice that she'll fight for custody of Dylan and his sister, Carys, 10, if he files for divorce.

MICHAEL DOUGLAS WALKS OUT! – AS TROUBLED CATHERINE WASTES AWAY

Michael is seen carting his luggage from the couple's New York City home on Sept. 5. Daughter Carys and son Dylan (inset) are caught in the middle of their parents crumbling marriage

"Carys was also upset when her daddy left, but not as much as Dylan," said the source. "He and Michael have a very close bond while Carys is closer to her mother."

Now, insiders believe that a behind-the-scenes custody battle over the couple's kids could turn nasty and explode.

"Michael has already made peace with the notion of handing over a huge chunk of his fortune, but he's telling friends Catherine will get the kids 'over my dead body,'" said the source.

BUT STRONG-WILLED CATHERINE fired back that there's no way she's giving them up. In fact, she has publicly stated in the past that she doesn't believe in divorce or breaking up the family.

"Divorce repulses me," she said. "I grew up in a small, strictly Catholic fishing village where people have a different attitude to those in Hollywood."

But, in the end, Catherine may not have a choice.

In our Sept. 16 issue, we revealed that the couple have been fighting over Catherine's dangerous habit of mixing alcohol with the medications she takes to control her bipolar disorder. And then there's also cancer-survivor Michael's "obsession" that his gorgeous raven-haired wife still carries a torch for John Leslie, her playboy ex-beau.

Michael also has the support of his father, Hollywood legend Kirk Douglas, in his battle for custody of Dylan and Carys.

"But Kirk is most worried about Dylan," the source added. "He loves that little boy."

George Hamilton MARRIAGE MISERY

GEORGE HAMILTON was left red-faced with embarrassment when his former fiancee waltzed down the aisle with another man!

The 74-year-old TV personality and former ladies' man was left to lick his wounds as gorgeous "dermatologist to the stars" Dr. Barbara Sturm, 40, tied the knot with Hollywood consultant Adam Waldman at Cher's palatial Malibu beach house on Sept. 7.

Barbara and George

"George and Barbara had been together for four years, and he had every intention of settling down with her," said a source

"They were talking marriage and even starting another family."

George already has grown son Ashley from his marriage to Alana Stewart, and 13-year-old love child George Thomas, from his relationship with former model Kimberly Blackford.

As The ENQUIRER reported last August, Hamilton confessed that he'd finally given up his playboy ways because it was too tiring.

"I honestly don't cheat anymore," he told an interviewer. "First of all, it's difficult to remember all those lies. Second of all, the last thing I want is to have my woman leave me now."

But in the end, George had little say in the matter. The source reveals that Barbara got tired of being alone while he spent time on the road playing Georges in a touring production of "La Cage aux Folles."

"When Barbara met Adam, they fell deeply in love," added the source. "And that was that."

BLIND MAN BUILDS HIS OWN HOME!

Brave dad's amazing tale of triumph OVER TRAGEDY

THOMAS GRAHAM is building the house of his dreams all on his own – no easy task. But what makes this Texas man's story even more incredible is that he is completely blind!

"People are blown away when they hear what he's doing," his wife Evonne told The ENQUIRER. "They're in awe."

Thomas, 48, says he learned everything he needed to know about home building when he spent a summer working for a carpenter at the age of 17. The following year, he was blinded when he took a shotgun blast to the face during a hunting accident.

"I've got this image in my head of what I need to do, so that's how I'm able to do it," he explained. "I may be slower than most, but I'm probably just as accurate."

Thomas Graham learned how to safely use power tools

THOMAS, WHO LIVES with Evonne and their 14-year-old son in Bullard, Texas, also learned some useful skills when he worked with a blind woodwork instructor making furniture in a rehab center for the blind.

"He showed me how I could safely use power tools," said Thomas. "You name it, I've used it. I use a radial arm saw, a jigsaw, a table saw, drills, a nail gun, hammer."

Evonne says she wasn't fazed when Thomas told her about his plans.

"I've seen him build cabinets and furniture," she said. "He built a porch on a trailer he had. So I knew he could do it.

"He's not normal. He's just so gifted, it's unreal. I've never met a man, even a sighted man, this gifted."

So far, Thomas has put in the foundation, the walls and the rafters for the roof, and he's planning to do all the electrical and plumbing himself.

"My wife will help me with the electrical," he admitted. "She'll tell me the color of the wires so I can match them up. Other than that, I can do the rest myself."

Thomas uses a Braille yardstick for getting his measurements right, and a laser beam level that beeps when surfaces are level.

"I've had people stop by and measure things. They want to make sure I'm not building the Leaning Tower of Pisa," he said with a chuckle. "They're shocked when they see all the measurements are true.

"Some people don't believe I'm really blind. I just tell them, 'OK, let me drive your vehicle then!'"

THOMAS HOPES TO have his single story house completed by Christmas. It'll have three bedrooms, two-and-a-half bathrooms and a two-car garage.

"I reckon it'll be worth $300,000 when I'm done," he said.

People in Bullard are amazed by Thomas' abilities.

"His hands are his eyes," said local realtor Jim McKay. "He's developed a lot of little tricks.

"It's amazing to watch him. He's just incredible."

Ex-wife Kate has slapped Jon with a lawsuit

Reality dad hits rock bottom

JON GOSSELIN WAITING TABLES

Jon claims he was just volunteering at Emily's pub in Beckersville, Pa.

Kate's ex works pub lunch shift TO MAKE ENDS MEET

Jon's new place of employment

DO you want fries with that burger?

In order to make ends meet, one-time reality TV star Jon Gosselin has taken a job as a waiter and bus boy at Emily's pub in rural Beckersville, Pa.

What's more, the former computer programmer, who divorced his wife Kate in 2009, is living in a cabin in the woods to save money.

"Jon has really hit rock bottom," said a source close to the co-star of the former cable TV hit "Jon & Kate Plus 8."

"Just a few years ago, he was jetting off to France to hobnob in St. Tropez, sipping champagne on a yacht. Now he's waiting tables at a pub! Working the weekday lunch shift, he can't possibly be taking home more than $40 or $50."

THE ENQUIRER RECENTLY approached Jon at the eatery, which was once a historic hotel. He said he was there to "volunteer" and declined to comment further.

But Emily's pub staffer Leah Littlefield tweeted: "Jon Gosselin is the new server at my work" and "...I'm ahead of him right now, too. I'm hosting, he's serving."

At one time, Jon was on the hook for a whopping $22,000 a month in child support. Then last year, Kate relieved him of all current and future child support obligations.

But she recently slapped her ex with a lawsuit alleging he and a writer had illegally hacked into her e-mail accounts, phone records and bank accounts for a book titled, "Kate Gosselin: How She Fooled The World." It was pulled from Amazon.com soon afterward.

Jon became a household name when the couple's reality show took off on the TLC network in April 2007.

"Now Jon doesn't know what he's going to do," said the source. "He can't defend himself against Kate's suit. He's just struggling to pay the rent on his cabin in the woods."

IT looks like Tiger Woods is getting a taste of his own medicine – his girlfriend Lindsey Vonn was caught cheating, a source says.

The Olympic skier was spotted backstage at a Justin Timberlake and Jay Z concert in Miami on Aug. 16 engaging in a very public, VERY hot makeout session with an older hunk from the "SexyBack" singer's tour!

"After the concert was over, Lindsey and a group of female friends, carrying drinks, made their way backstage, and Lindsey spotted a guy she very obviously knew well," a source said.

"She threw herself into his arms and they started on a long session of deep kissing that went on for several minutes. He was a tall, good-looking man, in his mid-40s, with graying temples. They were really going at it. They were both holding drinks, and Lindsey's free hand was around his neck, drawing him closer, while his hand was gripping her rear end."

LINDSEY, WHO WAS IN MIAMI FOR A "LVTakesMiami" promotion and photo session for one of her sponsors, Red Bull, later tweeted: "Wow that was amazing! Best concert I've ever been to!"

Tiger is no stranger to cheating scandals, but it appears this time the tables are turned! The legendary golfer's marriage to ex-wife Elin Nordegren collapsed in 2009 after The ENQUIRER revealed that he'd had a torrid affair with New York party girl Rachel Uchitel. No long after that, a bevy of beauties came forward to reveal they'd also slept with the athlete.

Tiger, 37, and Lindsey, 28, went public with their relationship in March and have been inseparable ever since. She's been living at Tiger's palatial Jupiter Island, Fla., estate and has been spotted cheering for him at golf tournaments, lounging on the deck of his yacht, and even dropping his two kids – daughter Sam, 6, and son Charlie, 4 – off at school and T-ball games.

But this isn't the first time Lindsey has been linked to another man since she met Tiger. When they announced their "dating" status on Facebook in March, Lindsey reportedly chose Tiger over Kim Kardashian's ex, NBA player Kris Humphries.

"Lindsey's not a nun," a source told The ENQUIRER. "She's a very physical, very attractive young woman with a very strong athlete's ego. She wants her own fame – not his. Now it looks like she's checking out the playing field." The source adds there's a good chance Lindsey's secret smooch will be the kiss of death for her and Tiger's romance.

"Tiger doesn't know yet, but when he finds out she's been fooling around with another guy at a public event, he's going to go ballistic," says the insider. "Image is everything to Tiger and there's no way he'd let her get away with embarrassing him this way. It makes him look like a fool."

Jennifer, who handled the 2008 murders of three family members with courage and grace, jumped into the fray – telling David to call off his attack.

Robin Williams chills too-hot crew with cool surprise gift: SNOWBALLS!

MAN, THAT'S COLD! Thrilled to be back on TV with his new CBS series "The Crazy Ones," ROBIN WILLIAMS started feeling sorry for the show's male crew members – boom operators, sound guys, carpenters, etc. – who were dragging butt after hours working the LA location in 100-degree heat, so next day he passed out some totally cool gifts...groin-chillin' men's underwear called "Snowballs!" Said my on-set spy: "Grinning like a loony, Robin handed out these organic cotton tighty-whities he'd ordered online to more than a dozen guys, chortling that frozen plastic gel packs tucked into the crotch sorta cup and cool the cojones – and are guaranteed to keep a man 'ferociously fertile!' " Then, without warning, Robin blew everyone's mind – abruptly dropping trou and showing off his own chilled Snowballs as cast and crew cracked up!

LEAVE IT TO DWIEBER DEPT.: Hanging with pals at Toronto's The Dog's Bollocks, JUSTIN BIEBER – wearing his usual teen-girl-playing-thug-guy outfit of baseball cap, low-crotch baggies and a tee inscribed, "Leave Me Alone" – suddenly exploded at a guy he thought was staring at him. "What the f are you looking at, dude?" screamed The Dwieb. "Can't I even relax without some f p* staring at me?" Stunned, the guy went bright red as diners stared and Justin barked at his buds: "What the f is wrong with this loser?" Finally, the poor guy spoke up and said, "Are you high or something? I'm just trying to watch the game!"...pointing at the joint's TV set, positioned just behind the pop punk's head. "Suddenly, Justin was the one with egg on his face," said My SpyWitness. "He immediately changed his tune, apologized – and even offered to buy his victim dinner!" But the guy said: "No thanks," quickly exiting as diners shook their heads in disgust – carefully directing their glares away from Crazy Canuck for fear of being his next targets.

When one of my reporters ran into BRAD PITT at an LA hotel, he asked the superstar/director, "Would you ever like to direct ANGELINA JOLIE in a movie?" Flashing that lazy, Cheshire cat grin that makes ladies weak, SuperBrad drawled: "I direct her every day!" (Yeah! My man BRAD!)

TONGUE-TIED: Nope, that's not Miley Cyrus – it's singer Demi Lovato, playfully sticking her tongue out as she pranks "Late Night" host Jimmy Fallon with bunny ears during a photo op.

Shopping for shoes at Euro-Comfort in chi-chi BevHills, PRISCILLA PRESLEY was just about to try on a pair of komfy kicks when a 40-ish woman rushed over, grabbed her hand and blurted tearfully: "I know you're going to be shocked at this, but...I was ELVIS' love child!" Yanking back her pretty paw, 68-year-old Priscilla purred, "You were Elvis' love child? Well, I was 14 when I started dating him...so I guess I was Elvis' love child, too!" And off she slinked, hitting the street in the shoes she'd walked in on.

Seems like everyone wants a piece of Elvis, including legendary TV game show host WINK MARTINDALE's actress wife SANDY FERRA – who embarrassed hubby during dinner with pals at Duke's eatery in Malibu, says an eyewitness, when she emphatically declared, more than once: "I had sex with Elvis Presley!" People at the table were appalled as Sandy – who dated The King for years before marrying Wink – "kept repeating that she'd slept with Elvis," said the eyewitness. "Wink, looking infuriated, finally walked out, grumbling, 'I'm going to go wait in the car! I've heard enough of this!' It was so awkward!" Lady, don't be cruel!

Screen legend JANE FONDA, fresh from her triumph in mega-hit "The Butler," rolled her eyes while lunching with fellow fitness guru RICHARD SIMMONS at the swanky BevHills Hotel Polo Lounge when she spotted a hyperventilating lady fan gripping an autograph book bustling up to the table – but before Big Star Jane could wave her paws in protest, the woman never gave her so much as a glance and gushed to Simmons: "Oh, I am your biggest fan – I'm so thrilled to meet you! Please let me have your autograph!" Bouncy Simmons, sporting a HUGE grin, happily obliged as the visibly Hanoi-ed Jane sat totally unnoticed.

When SARAH JESSICA PARKER and mate MATTHEW BRODERICK were approached by an eager autograph hunter at New York's JFK Airport, she quickly told hubby: "Come on, we have to go!" But nice guy Matthew generously inked four John Hancocks for the guy as Sarah, sighing, signed just one. Then, as she hustled her easygoing spouse away, Autograph Monster pitched an insane fit, running after them and yelling: "Sarah, you could've signed more than one. How were you the star of a show called 'Sex and the City?' You look horrible without makeup – and you have a long face like a horse!" Emitting nary a whinny, Sarah quickly segued from a walk to a trot!

Hey, fans of gossip – and "Fifty Shades of Grey" – just read a new novel called "Hollywood Lies," which bills itself as a "ripped-from-the-headlines romance!" As a guy who writes the headlines ripped from, I eyeball every book about our beloved Gollywood – and was intrigued when the author, a lady named N.K. SMITH told me: "As complex as love and sex can be for anyone, with 'Hollywood Lies' I wanted to explore just how difficult those things can become when the whole world is watching!" (Watching through the prying, spying eyes of guys like me – right, lady?) Okay, loved the book – and here's my surprise scoop: Even though there's lotsa hot sex involving stars and horny moguls, those naughty "Fifty Shades" folks insist that this time, it "doesn't involve whips, chains, or subversion." WHAAAT? WHY NOT?? Because "vanilla is the new rebellion in today's erotic romance marketplace!" (Well, you grrrls all like vanilla...right? YUM!)

SALAD DAYS: Debuting her new Fox TV talk show, Skinnygirl mogul Bethenny Frankel greets hunky guest Anderson Davis – famed as "The Zesty Guy" on Kraft TV commercials.

STAR POWER: Talk about "Glee" – Jane Lynch's eyes sparkle as she points with pride at her brand-new star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame.

I TOLD YA SO! Speaking of "Fifty Shades of Grey," by now you've read the news I scooped in last week's column about how producers of the highly anticipated movie version drove a stake through the heart of Vampire Boy ROBERT PATTINSON – killing his chance to star in BDSM scenes female fans of the monster best-seller are panting to see! I wrote: "Movie execs feel Rob's much too closely identified with the 'Twilight' movies – so they've decided to go with a total unknown...!" Well, they came damn close to their goal with CHARLIE HUNNAM (me and my staff's reaction was, "WHO?"), but the guy's a working actor and may be great – despite reports of heavy female backlash. (Good luck, pal!)

Reader CELIA GOLLIN wrote from the UK and cracked me up with this hilarious query: "Hi, Mike... Has anyone yet nicknamed them 'The HardKashians'?!" No, Celia, but someone – like me, for instance – should have. You're now part of gossip history, Dear Reader!

During then-pudgy Prez BILL CLINTON's White House days, he famously ADORED Twinkies...so now that they've made a comeback, will Bubba bend the rules of that strict vegan diet he went on after his heart operation years back? Remember, The Prez was so Twinkie-whipped he actually slipped one into a 1999 time capsule, alongside a chunk of the Berlin Wall! Now here's my scoop from a top Hollywood insider, who reveals that every week, Clinton's FedEx-ed a dozen vegan "Twinkies" from the chef at a top LA vegan eatery! My source, who's sampled the healthy snacks, reports "they're delicious – taste like the real deal. The chef makes them from his own recipe, then personally ships them to President Clinton – who's told him that he never offers one to anyone else." (Y'all hawg healthy now, Bubba, you hear?!) ...And how was YOUR week?

Just as the former "Dancing with the Stars" competitor reached his fighting weight and proudly began to display his new body, Cher grabbed headlines with a sexy lingerie photo shoot – vamping as a slinky blonde bombshell on her new album cover.

"Chaz is furious," an insider told The ENQUIRER.

"It seems Cher can't let him enjoy his success without trying to do him one better. Chaz feels very confident in his new body. He literally worked his butt off to get there.

"Then here comes Mom, and with some blonde hair dye and a little computer magic, she's flaunting how sensational she looks at 67."

The "Believe" singer indeed looks half her age on the album ironically named "Closer to the Truth." And when 44-year-old Chaz saw the pictures, he exploded.

"You're such a fake!" he bellowed at Cher, according to the insider.

The transgender activist is especially upset because he achieved his results the old-fashioned way through low-carb dieting, grueling gym workouts, cardiovascular dance classes and hours of martial arts practice.

As The ENQUIRER reported earlier this year, Chaz has indeed become the incredible shrinking man, a weight-loss effort that began when he appeared on the syndicated TV show "The Doctors."

In an inspiring display of willpower, the 5-foot-5 1/2 author and actor plummeted from an all-time high of 250 pounds last November to around 180.

And as our ENQUIRER photo shows, Chaz turned heads as he showed off his new body on Sept. 3 in Los Angeles, arriving at an acting workshop in a tight T-shirt and shorts.

"Chaz looks great," marveled an observer.

"He has been losing weight steadily and now seems totally comfortable in his new body.

"HE'S AT THE GYM FOR SEVERAL HOURS almost every day, and every time I run into him, there's a little less to see."

Added the insider: "Chaz says people look at him and they see a real person who suffered and struggled to drop weight and get in shape and isn't afraid to be who he really is.

"When he looks at the new pics of Cher, he sees someone who is hiding behind the Hollywood glamor machine."

Meanwhile, Chaz is getting a good ribbing from pals over his mom's efforts to make time stand still – and it's getting on his nerves.

But Cher responds to his complaints "by putting him down with a 'what do you know' attitude," said the insider. "Chaz told her she has never been able to accept him as a man, and now she can't stand it when people tell her he's a good-looking guy.

"There should be a parade for Chaz celebrating all he's accomplished. Instead, everyone is talking about his half-naked mom."

THIS IS CRAZY!

Valerie Harper is partnered with Tristan MacManus on the dance competition show

Judge Len's alarmed as cancer-battler Valerie signs up for 'DWTS'

COURAGEOUS Valerie Harper, who's waging a valiant fight against cancer, is facing another battle with a fierce adversary – "Dancing with the Stars" judge Len Goodman.

The beloved 74-year-old star is competing on the new season of "DWTS," beginning Sept. 16, after doctors informed her she's holding her own against the deadly cancer that's spread to her brain membranes.

But no-nonsense judge Goodman, who regularly lambasts contestants and fellow judges, thinks the show is taking a big risk.

"LEN IS AS TOUCHED BY Valerie's story as much as anyone – he is a cancer survivor himself," a source told The ENQUIRER. "But he sees Valerie's casting as a stunt that could backfire on him and the show, no matter how it plays out. If Len doesn't like what he sees on the dance floor and calls out Valerie on it, he's going to get even more hate mail than he already does. Picking on her would be like booing Mother Teresa.

"And if Valerie has a long run on the show, people are going to think she's getting a sympathy vote."

"Dancing with the Stars" has suffered a ratings slide, and it will go from two days a week to one, combining performance and results in one two-hour program.

Producers hope Harper will give the show a boost when she competes against actresses Leah Remini and Elizabeth Berkley and "Jersey Shore" reality star Snooki.

Incredibly, the popular comic actress was given only three to six months to live when she was diagnosed in January with the vicious cancer that attacks the brain.

Mary Tyler Moore

But after being confirmed as a "DWTS" competitor on Sept. 4, she revealed: "I feel much better. And my brain scans are looking better too. The doctors tell me there's less evidence of cancer, which is very unusual. However, they both say it's not a case of if, but when. And I can live with that."

Now the heroic star is training hard with her pro partner Tristan MacManus and getting encouragement and tips from Mary Tyler Moore.

"Valerie doesn't want sympathy from Len Goodman or anyone else," assured a friend. "She's working her tail off and won't embarrass herself." by ROGER HITTS

The stars for Season 17 of "DWTS" that Leah will be competing against

LEAH REMINI is finally free of her Scientology shackles, and she's ready to kick up her heels on the new season of "Dancing with the Stars."

And the 43-year-old actress, who split from the controversial church in July, has just one goal in mind as she joins the reality dance competition – beating her ex-best friend Kirstie Alley!

The "Fat Actress" star, 62, is a two-time "DWTS" vet, taking second place in spring 2011 and seventh place last fall.

In early July, Leah – who's best known for her role on TV's "The King of Queens" – announced she was leaving the cult-like Scientology religion because she disagreed with some of the church's practices and policies.

The rift began when Leah questioned the absence of Scientology leader David Miscavige's wife Shelly. She later reportedly filed a missing person report to LAPD, although LAPD found Shelly and closed the case.

UNTIL THEN, SHE AND KIRSTIE – A DEVOUT Scientologist – had been close pals. But Kirstie lashed out on Twitter after Leah's announcement. In a cryptic July 10 message, Kirstie tweeted about losing someone she "thought was my friend" and then adding, "f 'em."

"Kirstie can be very vicious when she's angry," a source noted. "And she gets really angry when someone says something negative about Scientology.

"She believes Leah is betraying everything they stand for and that she is going to hell."

Now Leah is out for revenge – and she's going to do it on the dance floor.

But at the same time, Leah is worried that an estimated 3.5 million members of Scientology, at the direction of Miscavige,

Recently, The ENQUIRER ran a cover story on the Church of Scientology's New Mexico facility. According to a church spokesperson: "The subject of the article is an archive belonging to the Church of Spiritual Technology. The Scientology Church cares for the long-term preservation of L. Ron Hubbard's writings and lectures."

The spokesperson added: "The facility in New Mexico is an archival storage site containing preservation copies of Mr. Hubbard's writings and lectures. No parishioner files, celebrity or otherwise, have ever been found or were ever located at the New Mexico facility."

Although a local police chief inspected the facility, the spokesperson notes: "The Church has always maintained good relations with the local community, including law enforcement personnel who have been invited to the property for goodwill visits."

Leah Remini plots REVENGE ON KIRSTIE

Former pal Kirstie Alley is said to be furious with Leah for leaving the religion they once shared may try to launch a secret voting campaign against her. And if that happens, she will struggle to get past the first week.

But Scientology dropout FEARS BACKLASH ON 'DANCING'

"Scientologists are known for trying to 'get even' with people who defy the church – and right now Leah is public enemy #1," said the source.

"Leah is going to work her butt off to get the dances perfect – but she's also worried all of this may be for nothing!"

Added a family friend: "Kirstie herself will probably be voting against Leah too."

Katie Couric FIANCE'S SHAMEFUL DOUBLE LIFE!

Why pals fear newsgal IS HEADED FOR HEARTBREAK

KATIE COURIC is on cloud nine as she gets ready to walk down the aisle again, but friends fear the 56-year-old has been blinded by love and is headed for heartbreak!

Incredibly, the former CBS news anchor seems to be ignoring evidence that her future husband, businessman John Molner, is a cheater who was two-timing Katie early in their relationship.

"KATIE'S BEEN DESPERATE TO find love for a very long time, but unfortunately, she's not seeing any of the red flags," a source told The ENQUIRER. "Every one of Katie's friends told her to hold off and not get married, but it's like she's walking around with blinders on."

Katie – whose first husband, Jay Monahan, died of colon cancer in 1998 – found out AFTER she and John began dating nearly two years ago that he was already involved in a two-year relationship with 28-year-old Jessica Hsu. John and Jessica met while they were both working at Brown Brothers Harriman, the financial firm where he's head of mergers and acquisitions.

As The ENQUIRER reported in August 2012, Jessica was at John's apartment, waiting for him to come home, when friends called to tell her that he was at THEIR favorite restaurant with Katie.

When Jessica confronted John about the affair, he promised to end it. But instead, he pulled the plug on their relationship and left all of Jessica's belongings with the doorman of his building!

"Yes, John cheated on me," a tearful Jessica told The ENQUIRER at the time.

And that behavior has Katie's friends concerned.

"Katie is a smart woman, but clearly not when it comes to choosing men," said another pal. "To put it bluntly, she may not have known it at the time, but Katie was basically John's mistress because he was cheating on Jessica with her.

"That's why all her friends are so concerned. As the old saying goes ...once a cheater, always a cheater."

Still, the former "Today" host said "yes" to the 50-year-old divorced father during a romantic sunset proposal on the beach in East Hampton, N.Y., over the Labor Day weekend.

Meanwhile, Katie has two daughters, Ellie, 22, and Carrie, 17, from her marriage to Monahan. Although she's dated several men since Jay's death, including TV tycoon Tom Werner and jazz musician Chris Botti, it was her five-year romance with Brooks Perlin that really broke her heart, says the friend.

THE ENQUIRER REVEALED THAT Brooks – who's 17 years younger than Katie – repeatedly cheated on her with a younger woman.

"Katie's had enough heartache in her life," added the source. "It's no secret that John likes younger women, and Katie's no spring chicken. "She would be devastated if he cheated on her."

ENQUIRER EXCLUSIVE

Vanna White son's SHOCKING TELL-ALL

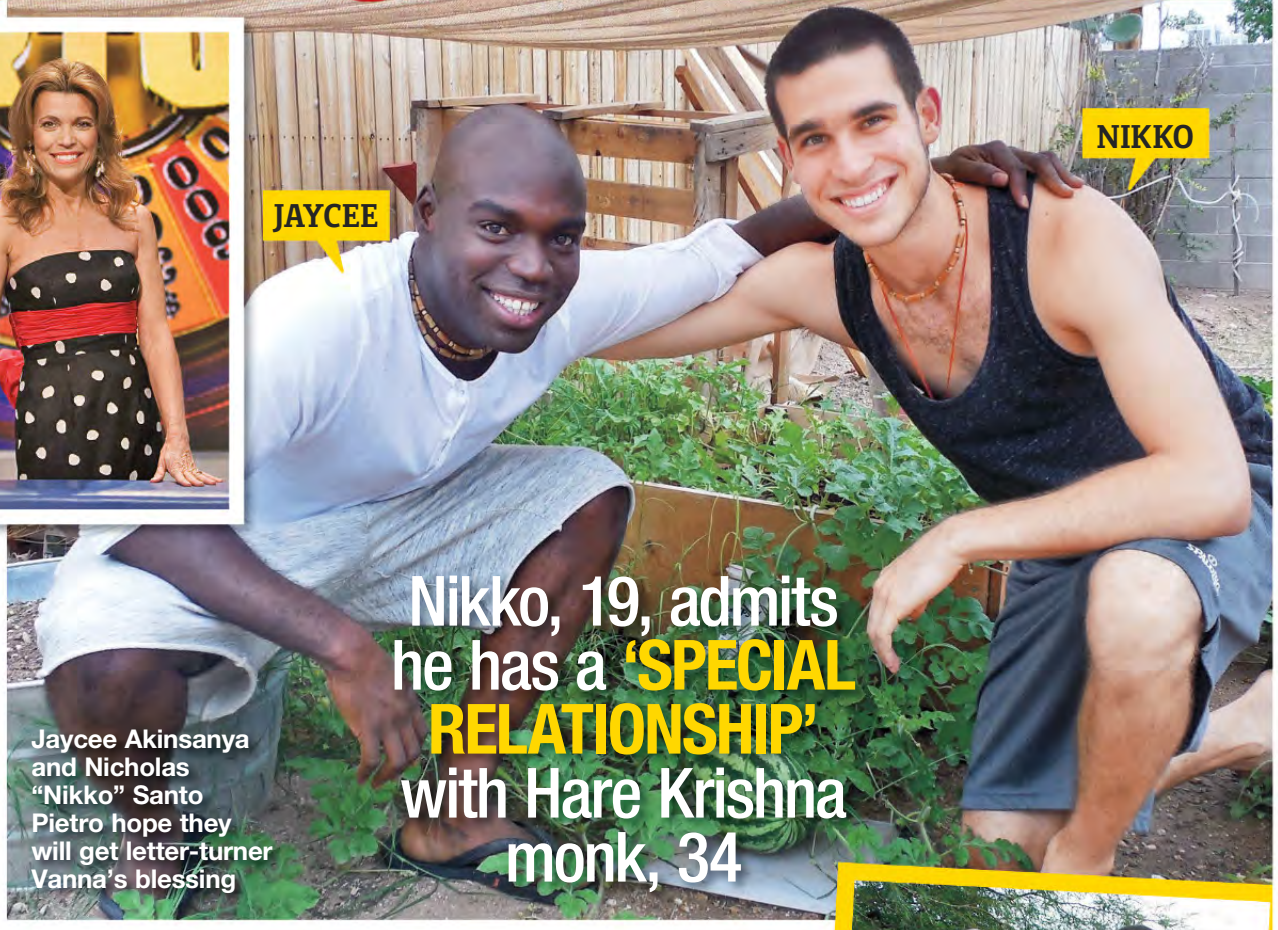
VANNA WHITE's 19-year-old son reveals he's exploring a gay relationship with a Hare Krishna monk who's 15 years his senior – and the couple is hoping to get Vanna's blessing!

That's the bombshell new development in the shocking story The ENQUIRER broke last week when we disclosed that the 56-year-old "Wheel of Fortune" beauty was terrified she had lost her son Nicholas to a religious cult.

We disclosed that the University of Arizona student, nicknamed "Nikko," was living with 34-year-old Jaycee Akinsanya in the monk's small house in Tucson near the university campus.

Now, in an amazing twist, Nikko and Jaycee have come forward to tell their incredible story to The ENQUIRER – saying they have no reason to hide their love and want to publicly disclose their deep feelings.

"Jaycee and I have a special relationship," Nikko proudly declared. "It's the closest I've ever been with anyone. It's just spiritual and wonderful and there is chemistry – and if there's sex also, so be it. It doesn't matter!"



Jaycee Akinsanya and Nicholas "Nikko" Santo Pietro hope they will get letter-turner Vanna's blessing

Nikko, 19, admits he has a 'SPECIAL RELATIONSHIP' with Hare Krishna monk, 34

AS THE ENQUIRER REPORTED, Jaycee had been a monk since he was 18 but left the monastic life when he met Nikko last year. He now reveals that being celibate was too difficult once the handsome college student came into his life.

"In May, Nikko and I went on a road trip and the ashram (spiritual center) just faded away," Jaycee divulged. "I still live the monastic principles – not necessarily the celibacy part – but the Krishna consciousness movement deals with consciousness and perceiving God every day.

"I am open-minded. Monks have to be celibate, but I no longer wanted to be a monk, so Nikko and I have other options now."

In an astonishing disclosure, the couple revealed that in May they went to meet Vanna and her ex-husband, restaurant mogul George Santo Pietro, who is Nikko's father.

"They are wonderful people," Jaycee told The ENQUIRER. "We visited them in Los Angeles but we slept in different rooms."

Nikko interjected: "My parents would not have understood us sharing a room. We had to be cool and respectful."

But now that Nikko is in college and out of the house, Jaycee says it's the young man's decision whether or not to continue their relationship.

"If Nikko's parents asked me to stop seeing him, I would listen to their request and leave it to Nikko to decide," disclosed Jaycee.

The optimistic pair reveal they would like to have Vanna accept their relationship.

"My mom and dad like Jaycee," Nikko told The ENQUIRER. "They don't think he is a demon.

"This is a good example for anyone who is young and trying to explore different avenues in life.

"Our relationship is not sexual in the full sense, but we are very close.

"As far as my sexual preference, I'm undecided. I have had one girlfriend and never had a real boyfriend. We are just happy to be together, loving each other in whatever way possible," Nikko emphasized. "Gay? It's possible."

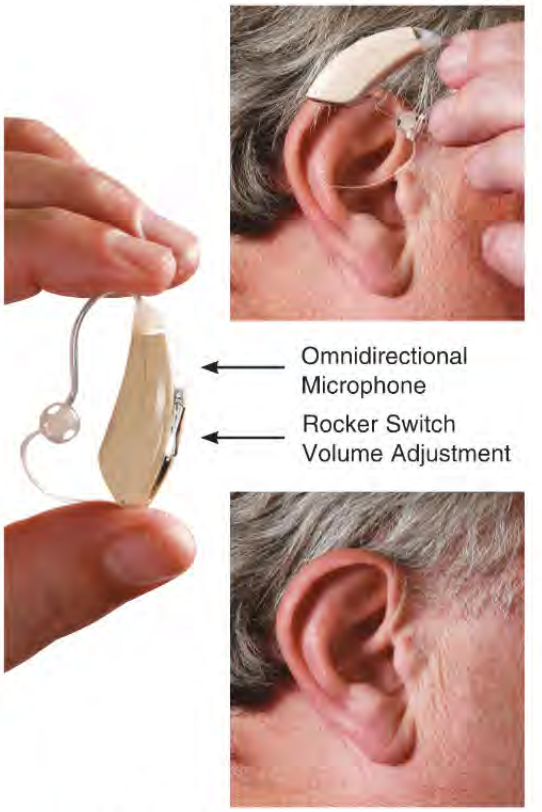
Personal Sound Amplification breakthrough

Our sound engineers understand acoustics so you can understand conversations.

Perfect Choice HD™ features world-class processors for natural sound quality in a wide spectrum of listening situations.

If you are considering personal sound amplification, you probably know that louder isn't always better. If it were, you could just get one of those ear horns that were popular back in the 19th Century... as long as you weren't concerned with your appearance. Fact is, human conversation- the main reason people get amplification, occupies a relatively small range in the overall sound spectrum. Sound quality and speech intelligibility are much more important than sheer volume. That's why the sound engineers behind the Perfect Choice HD™ focus on optimal listening in challenging situations. The latest algorithms are running on advanced processors that are super small, yet super powerful. Best of all, Perfect Choice HD™ is comfortable and discreet. The lightweight case (you can choose between Silver and Beige) nestles in behind your ear. The clear hearing tube (good luck spotting it in the picture to the right... look closely, it's there) is connected to a flexible tip that fits comfortably into your ear canal. No one needs to know you are using it, and no one needs to know it didn't cost you thousands of dollars. The unit comes pre-programmed and is ready to use right out of the box, so it's the hassle-free choice that you can begin enjoying immediately.



Why Perfect Choice HD is the best choice !
Lightweight / Inconspicuous	Less than 1 ounce
Sound Quality	Excellent – Optimized for speech

Superior engineering makes it better

-Mosaic™ multi-layered noise reduction accentuates voices and seeks to lower general background noise from the environment.

-Advanced adaptive feedback suppression delivers high-quality sound even in demanding situations. Reducing feedback while delivering high-frequency gain is the hallmark of a professional grade personal amplifier.

-Expansion feature automatically acts to further reduce low-level noise while in particularly quiet environments.

-Wide Dynamic Range Compression brings soft voices into focus and reduces unexpected loud sounds so it can be worn all day long. It automatically changes, in real time to optimally fit your environment.

MICHAEL TURNS TO MAGIC FOR ADVICE

Magic's handling of the situation with his son impressed Michael

Basketball legends BOND OVER KIDS' SEXUALITY

Michael's daughter, Jasmine

Magic's son, E.J.

NBA legends Michael Jordan and Magic Johnson have more in common than being two of the greatest basketball players of all time – they also have kids identified as gay.

Michael's daughter Jasmine, 20, posted photos of herself with another woman on social media, setting off rumors that she is gay, so Michael turned to Magic for advice because Magic's son E.J., 21, came out earlier this year.

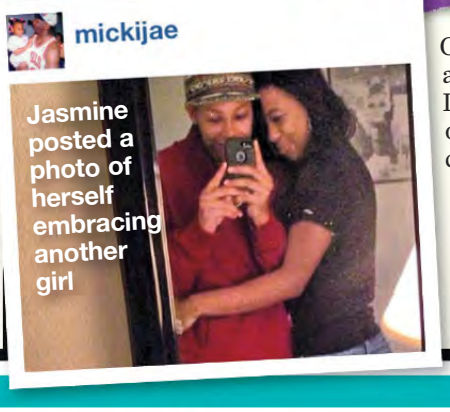
Insiders say Michael was so impressed with the way that Magic, 54, handled the situation, he's leaning on the former Los Angeles Lakers star for support.

"MICHAEL IS HAVING MIXED emotions that his only daughter could be gay," an insider revealed. "Michael loves all of his kids unconditionally, but he was shocked to find out about Jasmine. He never saw it coming.

"Michael and (his ex-wife) Juanita are both at a loss, and they're concerned about how this will affect Jasmine's future."

A junior at Syracuse University, Jasmine recently posted pictures of herself and Carmen Tyson-Thomas, a former Syracuse basketball player rumored to be her girlfriend, on Instagram, saying: "This little closet is holding me back."

After reports surfaced that she is gay, Jasmine posted: "Until Love, Trust, Honesty, Respect, Loyalty, Commitment, Genuine Happiness and other characteristics or aspects I want in a relationship is defined by one gender then and only then will I discuss my sexual preference."



According to the insider, Magic told Michael to "just love her and to let her know that she owes it to herself to be 100 percent genuine and to live her life to the fullest."

The former Chicago Bull, 50, also has two grown sons from his marriage to Juanita. But Michael, who wed model Yvette Prieto in April, admitted to Magic that he had always looked forward to walking Jasmine down the aisle one day and to seeing her have children.

"Magic told him all of those things can still happen for Jasmine," the insider added. "It just might not be with a man."

Danny Glover's 'LETHAL' FEUD

Darlene Love fended off unwanted advances from Danny, say sources

Screen wife Darlene has been mad at him – FOR 26 YEARS!

DANNY GLOVER was such a hound dog while filming "Lethal Weapon" that co-star Darlene Love still refuses to speak to him!

Sources say Darlene, 72, has been down on Danny, 66, ever since he hit on her when she played his character's wife in the 1987 blockbuster.

"Danny's nickname on the set was 'Dirty Danny' because he flirted with so many women and tried to get into their pants," a source told The ENQUIRER. "Darlene was married at the time and kept telling Danny that she wasn't interested, but he didn't think she meant it. Back then, sexual harassment wasn't taken as seriously as it is today, and no one filed a formal complaint because they wanted to work.

"Danny has sent Darlene flowers many times since then with a card saying he's sorry, but she's never responded."

Darlene – a famed backup singer in the '60s and '70s whose journey to the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame is chronicled in the documentary "20 Feet from Stardom" – admits she's still angry with Glover.

"HE WANTED TO SLEEP WITH ME, it was a big problem," said Darlene, who nevertheless went on to play Glover's wife in the three "Lethal Weapon" sequels.

"Once he called me at home and said, 'I'm looking at a picture of you right now. You don't know what I'd like to do with you.' " When a reporter asked if they're still in touch, Darlene snapped: "I don't speak to him. Keep that man away from me!"

Friends are advising Darlene to accept Glover's apology, but the source said: "For Darlene, it still stings."

MISSING TODDLER'S MOM COPIED CASEY ANTHONY – source

Body found three months after brunette's daughter was 'KIDNAPPED'

Supporters held vigils and conducted searches for missing Elaina. Angela Steinfurth was arrested on June 12 for obstruction of justice in her daughter's disappearance

IN a heartbreaking tragedy, little Elaina Steinfurth is being called the new Caylee Anthony after she disappeared and her mother Angela claimed she'd been abducted.

Police believe the 18-month-old toddler was killed by her mother's boyfriend Steven King Jr., and Angela covered up the heinous crime, claiming – just like Caylee's cold-hearted mom Casey – that a stranger had kidnapped her child.

FOR THREE MONTHS, POLICE, family members and neighbors searched desperately for Elaina. Finally, a rotting body believed to be Elaina's was found wrapped in a blanket inside a plastic box in the junk-strewn garage of King's mom in Toledo, Ohio.

Now Angela, 25, and her ex-beau King, 23, are behind bars, charged with obstruction of justice, but cops say they're also prime suspects in the toddler's death.

"Angela followed the Casey Anthony trial very closely," a family source told The ENQUIRER. "She was convinced that Casey got away with murder, and she figured she could do the same thing."

Cops believe King threw Elaina against a wall while arguing with Angela at his mother's home on June 1. The child's nose was bleeding and she'd suffered a head injury, but Angela did nothing to help her, a police source told The ENQUIRER.

When Elaina became sleepy – a typical symptom of a head injury – the couple put her to bed, and later, they discovered she was dead, according to what Angela reportedly told a cell mate.

Police believe Angela and King then wrapped Elaina's body in a blanket, put it into garbage bags, stuffed it inside a plastic computer box and stashed the box in the rafters of his mother's ramshackle garage.

The next day, Elaina's father Terry Steinfurth dropped by to pick up the tot and her sister Kylie, 4. Angela produced Kylie, but claimed Elaina was sleeping. When Terry returned later to pick up Elaina, all hell broke loose.

"Angela came out of the house screaming, 'My baby is gone! They took my baby!'" neighbor Dennis Bolfa told The ENQUIRER. Bolfa also noted that, in his opinion: "She was totally faking it. She turned her so-called grief on and off like a light switch."

Angela was convinced Casey got away with murdering daughter Caylee, and figured she could do the same thing, said a source

SUPPORTERS HELD CANDLELIGHT VIGILS and raised money to finance the search for little Elaina. But police suspected Angela was lying about the kidnapping and arrested her for obstruction of justice on June 12. King was arrested on the same charges 10 days later, and a cop says he eventually ratted on Angela, revealing the location of Elaina's body. On Sept. 6, investigators found the box in his mother's garage. The remains were so decomposed that – in an eerie echo of Caylee Anthony – the coroner could not determine the cause of death or even the sex of the corpse and are conducting DNA testing. The remains have not been positively identified, but officials and family members believe they must be Elaina's.

Steven King Jr.

Neighbor Avon Freeze told The ENQUIRER: "Angela showed no love to those children – not one bit. There's no doubt in my mind that she killed her daughter. Elaina Steinfurth is the new Caylee Anthony."

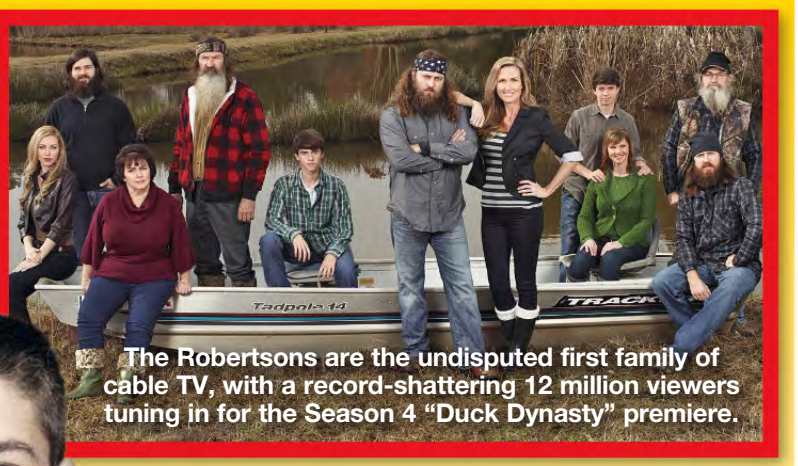
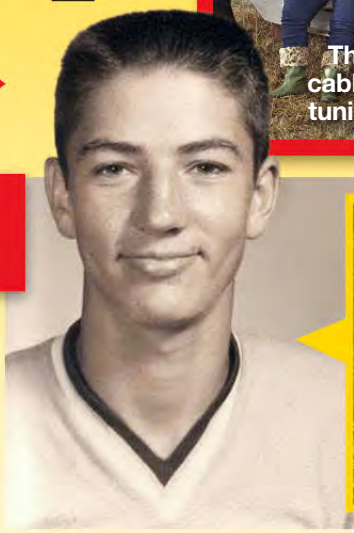
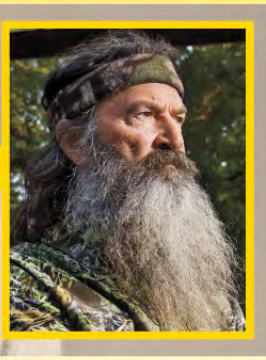
Revealed! 'DUCK DYNASTY' STARS – before they had beards!



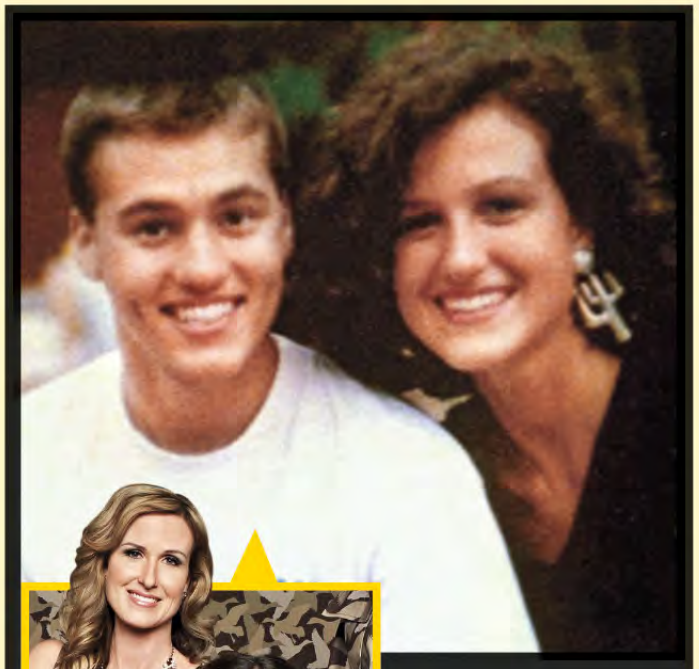
The Robertsons are the undisputed first family of cable TV, with a record-shattering 12 million viewers tuning in for the Season 4 "Duck Dynasty" premiere.

MILLIONS of "Duck Dynasty" fans know the Robertson clan as a bunch of bearded rednecks. But these hairy hunters weren't always covered in facial fuzz. The ENQUIRER has dug deep into the Robertson's family photo album – and you won't believe what we found!



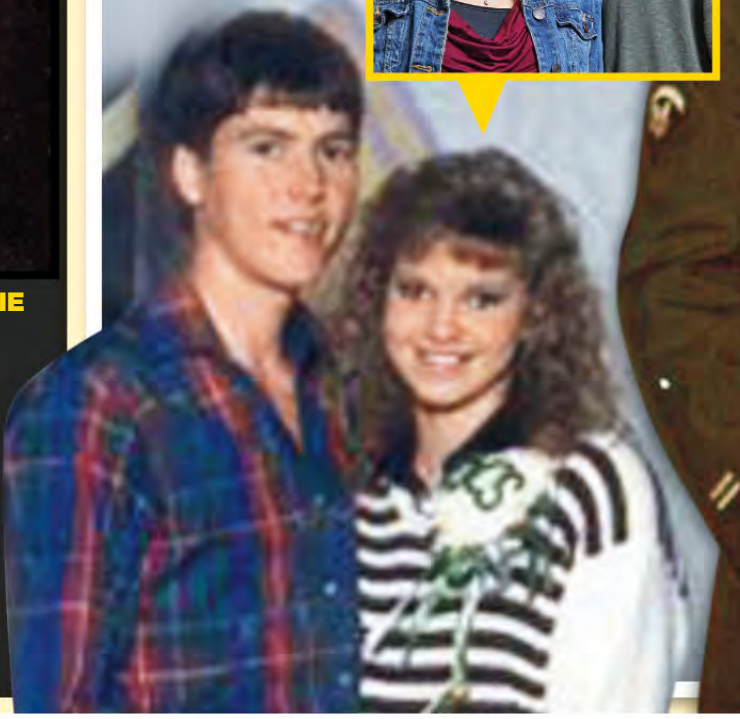


PHIL
He looks like such a clean-cut kid! But this fresh-faced teen, who would go on to become a college football star, wound up as the Robertson family patriarch. He's also happy, happy, happy that his book has turned out to be a best-seller.



WILLIE AND KORIE
Korie has loved Willie through thick (beard!) and thin. The two met as teens, when Willie was a clean-shaven "preppy" kid, and now they're the proud parents of five children of their own.

JASE AND MISSY
Sweethearts since their high school days in the '80s, Missy has since ditched the big hair – and Jase has embraced the long, scraggly look!



UNCLE SI
Vietnam War veteran Si was all smiles as a clean-shaven soldier, but the voluminous beard and camouflage cap better fit his quirky personality these days.

Our Top 3 Guaranteed Fat Burners!

There are thousands of diet products out there, but which one is right for you? We've looked at them all. Here are our 5 favorites. Remember to visit the individual websites for the full skinny on each product.

Reshape your entire body in just 30 Days?

Consumer Favorite

If you haven't heard about Vysera™-CLS yet... you definitely will... and very, very soon. Why? Because as incredible as it sounds, groundbreaking research has just identified a compound that can not only help you lose weight, but can actually reshape your entire body, reducing waist size, hip size, thigh and buttock circumference, belly bulge, and... last but not least... cause a significant loss of actual fat mass from all over your body. Has the "miracle pill" finally arrived? As one article said, taking Vysera is sort of like "eating a whole donut and only absorbing a fraction of the calories." How's that for amazing? (Of course, we don't advocate eating a donut as a meal, and this example is used for illustrative purposes only.) Vysera-CLS is available at select Ulta stores and at VyseraCLS.com or call 1-800-465-4439. Use promo code VYSERA25 and shipping is free![†]

"Combo-Pilling" America's Hottest Fat Burning Solution!

Ever wonder how some people manage to get so thin... so fast? It could be "Combo Pilling"... the über-trendy, "underground" practice of combining two or more diet pills to create "supercharged" weight loss. Our favorite diet pill combination is Zantrex®-3 (the high energy fat burner) and Relacore® Extra (the calming, feel good, "belly fat" pill). One pill picks you up, the other pill calms you down... both of them help you lose weight... but together, oh my goodness! Available at WalMart, CVS, Walgreens, RiteAid and smarter retailers nationwide, or you can order both at TryComboPilling.com (use promo code COMBOPILL41 and get free shipping![†]).

What Is Combo-Pilling? The highly controversial practice of Combo-Pilling is truly an underground phenomenon. Odds are, if you know someone who's losing lots of weight, and losing it fast, you probably know someone who's Combo-Pilling... Why? Because it allows people to attack multiple facets of weight loss — like dropping fat, overcoming stress eating, and having enough energy to work out — at the same time.

The Super-Powerful Diet Pill... When everything else has failed!

Most of us thought the era of the "Super-Powerful" diet pill ended a few years back when the FDA removed Ephedra and Fen-Phen from the U.S. market because of safety concerns. Well, it turns out that "most of us" were wrong. Two of the hottest "Super Pills" are BiphedAdrene (a complex amphetamine provisional plus an aggressive thermogenic formula) and ThermoDyne™ (a 3 phase thermodynamic fat oxidizer)! BiphedAdrene® is available exclusively at GNC and Biphed.com; about $135 for a full 30-day supply — use promo code POWER32 for free shipping[†]). ThermoDyne is available at GNC and NovexBiotech.com; about $60 for a full 30-day supply [120 capsules] — use promo code THERM17 for free shipping[†]). We emphasize that these high-energy products are not for everyone because they are extremely potent and contain powerful xanthine (stimulant) compounds. However, if "ordinary" diet pills aren't doing the job, this new crop of "Super Pills" is most certainly your best bet!

ENQUIRER WORLD EXCLUSIVE

Angelina's cancer nightmare: THREE YEARS TO LIVE!

- Devastated beauty fears the worst
- She plans final days with Brad and kids
- Desperate to live life to the fullest

The actress with her beloved brood

Brad is said to be frightened

PLAGUED by several devastating health woes, Angelina Jolie fears she has as little as three years to live and has secretly drawn up a "bucket list" of goals to complete before she dies.

In a bombshell world exclusive, sources told The ENQUIRER that the 38-year-old Oscar winner is convinced that the maladies – including her family's history of deadly cancer – will end her life prematurely.

The courageous beauty recently underwent a preventive double mastectomy to minimize her risk of breast cancer and plans to have additional surgery due to an elevated risk of ovarian cancer – but she's still convinced she's only got three to five years left, say insiders.

"Angelina is trying to live her life to the fullest because she feels deep down that she doesn't have much time left," a source close to the actress told The ENQUIRER.

"She's going to do everything she can to prolong her life but really believes she won't even reach her mid-forties."

Angie was a wild child in her youth

Experts consulted by The ENQUIRER say the "Tomb Raider" star's past history of drug abuse, her near-starvation diet, extreme stress and a grueling schedule can all contribute to cutting her down in the prime of life.

Her hectic lifestyle and medical conditions "can shorten her lifespan considerably," Dr. Damon Raskin, a prominent internist and addiction expert who hasn't treated Angelina, told The ENQUIRER.

The screen siren is painfully aware that her genetic makeup is a ticking time bomb.

Angie's mother, Marcheline Bertrand, died at 56 in 2007 following a long battle with ovarian cancer. The actress also lost her maternal grandfather, grandmother and uncle to cancer.

AND ON MAY 26, HER MOTHER'S sister, Debbie Martin, died of breast cancer at 61 – less than two weeks after Angelina revealed she'd undergone her preventive double mastectomy.

She disclosed her courageous decision in an article she wrote for "The New York Times," noting that doctors estimated she had an 87 percent risk of breast cancer due to a "faulty" BRACA1 gene.

She also divulged that she had a 50 percent risk of ovarian cancer and planned to undergo surgery to forestall that disease.

"There is no longevity on my mother's side," Angelina told "Esquire" magazine.

And the sexpot probably didn't help matters during a wild youth in which she confessed to using drugs, including heroin. Experts say that could raise her chances of contracting deadly hepatitis C and possibly needing a liver transplant someday.

As The ENQUIRER reported, the 5-foot-7 actress is now down to an estimated 92 pounds. To make matters worse, she's under tremendous physical and emotional wear and tear due to an almost nonstop schedule of film and humanitarian work. Since June she's helped partner Brad Pitt promote his movie "World War Z" in London, Europe and Japan, visited Jordan's Za'atri refugee camp, flew to Hawaii and Australia to scout movie locations and, most recently, headed back Down Under with her kids to start shooting her movie "Unbroken."

"She feels deep down that she doesn't have much time left"

"She's trying to cram everything into her life right now because she feels she could be gone in as little as three years," revealed a concerned insider.

"That's why number one on her bucket list is her plan to marry Brad. She wants to make sure they are legally husband and wife so there are no disputes when she passes on. She's getting her affairs in order and wants her six children to be well taken care of."

Angie's fears are grounded in real concerns, say health experts.

DR. RASKIN, WHO'S BASED IN Pacific Palisades, Calif., told The ENQUIRER: "A severe weight loss along with a past history of drug abuse is of grave concern. She may have already damaged her heart from substance abuse and at 92 pounds may be suffering from an eating disorder, which also can cause heart arrhythmia and muscle-wasting."

Dr. Gregory Smith, who has not treated Jolie but is a noted Los Angeles addiction expert, told The ENQUIRER: "She's been under a lot of stress lately with her surgeries, the deaths in her family and children to care for. When adversity strikes, it's common to return to old, destructive behaviors. If this is happening to Angelina, she may be risking an early death."

Meanwhile, Brad is said to be a basket case, especially frightened about the risks associated with Angelina's upcoming ovarian surgery. Despite putting on a brave face, he shares her deepest fear, revealed a source.

"He's worried sick that she could die."

Angelina – known for her humanitarian work – speaks with Syrian refugees in Jordan

REVEALED!

Jolie's 'bucket list' before she dies

AT the top of Angelina Jolie's bucket list is a magnificent dream wedding to fiance Brad Pitt – walking down the aisle as their six youngsters look on with pride, say sources.

"Angie wants to spend the time she has left as a married mom," revealed a source.

The "Salt" star also has other "bucket list" goals she's dying to achieve, including:

• Making sure her family is protected from possible nuclear Armageddon – and work has already begun on a reinforced bomb shelter at her Los Angeles home.

• Topping her Best Supporting Actress Oscar for "Girl, Interrupted" by winning a Best Director Academy Award for "Unbroken," now filming in Australia.

• Helping victims of the Syrian civil war by mounting a global telethon.

• Adopting one more child – a Syrian refugee.

• Taking her family on an African safari into the wilds of the Serengeti.

☑ GET NEW TATTOO

☐ GO ON SAFARI

☑ DRIVE RACE CAR

• Living on a Native American reservation and sleeping in a tepee to honor her late mother, who co-founded a group aiding American Indians.

• Arranging for her showbiz-loving sons Maddox and Pax to star in an action-adventure movie together.

Angelina has already ticked off some bucket-list items – such as racing against Brad at speeds more than 120 mph at a Canadian motor sports park. She's also got a new tattoo, took her kids to the Sydney Aquarium and stayed with Brad in his ex-wife Jennifer Aniston's favorite hotel, L.A.'s Sunset Tower.

Explaining her philosophy, Angelina once said: "The thought that you could die tomorrow frees you to appreciate life now." by MICHAEL GLYNN

Ask the Vet

WITH DR. JEFF LACROIX

Owning a pet can be a rewarding – but often puzzling – experience. ENQUIRER columnist, top veterinarian Dr. Jeff LaCroix, answers the toughest questions about your animal friends.

WHAT CAN WE DO ABOUT OUR CAT'S HAIRBALLS?

Q. Our cat often throws up hairballs. I guess this is normal because she licks herself a lot. There are a lot of home remedies on the Internet, but we'd rather have some professional advice about preventing and/or treating them.

A. You're right – it is normal. Cats swallow hair when they groom, and this hair becomes a tangled mass in the cat's intestinal tract – actually acting like a foreign body that needs to be expelled. There are many home remedies for hairballs. High fiber foods are the place to start. They hold water, increasing bulk, and then "push" the hair along the GI tract. Other sources of fiber can be added such as canned pumpkin, squash, bran and flaxseed. If your cat suffers from excessive hairball vomiting, you should take her for an exam because excessive grooming can be a sign of skin allergies.

HOW CAN WE CUT COSTS FOR FLEA AND HEARTWORM PROTECTION?

Q. We live in the Southeast and have three large dogs. While we understand the importance of flea and heartworm protection, it has become prohibitively expensive. Why is this and is there any way to cut the cost?

A. Both heartworm and flea control have evolved over time, and the cost of protection is just one of the expenses of having pets. Today's monthly heartworm meds take the place of the old daily pills, so costs have remained similar through the years. Flea control is more complicated because they reproduce quickly and become resistant to the insecticide of the day. This requires nearly continuous development of new, more effective products, and you have to pay for it. As far as saving money, it does pay to shop around, including the Internet and your vet. Many manufacturers offer special deals through them.

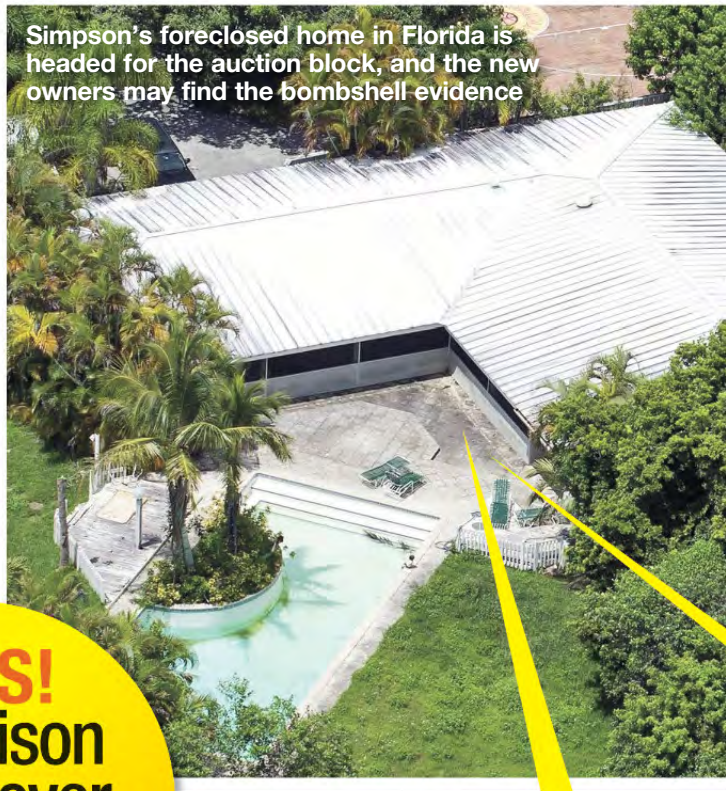
If the knife and shoes are ever found, they could prove O.J. brutally slaughtered Ron Goldman and Nicole Brown Simpson in 1994



Simpson's foreclosed home in Florida is headed for the auction block, and the new owners may find the bombshell evidence

PLUS! His prison panic over unearthed evidence

O.J. SIMPSON is shaken to the core because bombshell evidence that proves he murdered his ex-wife and her friend is hidden in his $500,000 Florida home – and it's all about to be discovered because the house is headed for the auction block on Oct. 29.

The home has been in foreclosure, and the disgraced football star, now imprisoned in Nevada, is terrified that the new owner will discover the items – the knife used in the gruesome murders and the designer shoes that left bloody tracks around his former wife's lifeless body.

Plus, sources tell The ENQUIRER, at one point O.J. also secreted potentially incriminating pages from his handwritten 1994 diary at the location.

THE HIDING PLACE – LOCATED AT 9450 SW 112 St. in Miami – "has been a house of horrors for years," disclosed an insider.

Brutal fights have erupted there over the years, and cops have rushed to the residence on several occasions because of frightening violence and suspected drug use.

Arnelle Simpson

And now, in a devastating new blow to O.J., the secrets behind the home's walls could provide the final, indisputable evidence that he was the one who brutally slaughtered his ex-wife Nicole Brown Simpson and her friend Ron Goldman on June 12, 1994.

The ENQUIRER has learned that as part of O.J.'s cover-up following the murders, he had buddies secretly rent storage bins for him to hide certain items, without knowing what they were.

At first, he just wanted to keep crime scene evidence out of the hands of authorities. But after his acquittal on criminal charges, he realized those items could someday fetch a fortune on the memorabilia market, say sources.

As he moved around, he took the items with him, and they ended up in Florida when he left California.

Late last year, The ENQUIRER revealed that Simpson had kept the murder weapon, believed to be a German Stiletto, and was negotiating to sell it to a wealthy collector for an astounding $5 million.

But the whereabouts of the size 12 Bruno Magli shoes, worn at the crime scene, remained a mystery – until now.

At the time of O.J.'s criminal trial, prosecutors produced photos of bloody tracks around Nicole's body and argued that the sole pattern was so rare it was limited to about 300 pairs of Magli shoes.

Simpson claimed he never owned a pair of "those ugly ass shoes."

But in an astonishing 1996 breakthrough, The ENQUIRER proved the former gridiron great did, in fact, own a pair of the fancy shoes imported from Italy. Our investigative team uncovered photos of him – taken months before the murders – wearing Bruno Maglis on the sidelines of a Buffalo Bills football game. The discovery later played a key role in O.J. being found liable for the slayings in a civil suit.

On the memorabilia market, the shoes could fetch as much as $6 million, said the insider.

"But O.J.'s dream of selling these things started falling apart because he can't stop the foreclosure or upcoming online auction of his home," continued the source. "He doesn't give a damn about the house – it's what he has hidden on the property that's freaked him out."

O.J., 66, is powerless to stop what's happening because he's locked up after being convicted on kidnapping and armed robbery charges and is not eligible to get out until 2017.

From behind bars, Simpson told a close pal about the murder items he has stashed at his home.

"O.J. confided that both the knife and the shoes are at his Florida property," the insider revealed. "He said he cleverly hid them when he had renovations done at the house back in 2006.

"He bragged that he had the knife and shoes in a waterproof metal box – along with the diary pages. One night, when the home repairs were being done, he buried the box and had it covered with concrete.

"O.J. wouldn't say if it was in a wall or in the floor of the house. In fact, he laughed when he was asked about the location.

"'What do you want me to tell ya, man!' he said. 'Do you want me to spell out where X marks the spot? C'mon, get a life. That's for just me to know.'"

And in a stunning new development, sources say Simpson confided that he also stashed a bundle of pages from his diary at the house.

"O.J. told a pal that the diary entries recount in detail his feelings toward Nicole and what went on shortly before and during the murders. He said he wrote about the killings as a kind of therapy for himself, but tore those pages out of the diary and kept them hidden in a metal box with the knife and shoes.

JILTED JENNIE SNAGS A GEEK

'90210' beauty falls for Internet mogul

CALL it the Revenge of the Nerds!

After her divorce from actor Peter Facinelli, ex-"Beverly Hills, 90210" star Jennie Garth has found love with an Internet hotshot!

Sources say Jennie, 41, met San Francisco-based multi-millionaire Michael Shimbo, 38, through mutual pals, and their romance is heating up.

"Jennie is absolutely crazy about Michael," said an insider.

"He's a self-made guy who started out as a salesman at The Gap and went on to co-found a company called Concert TV in 2003. Michael sold the firm in 2009 for millions and didn't have to work, but he took jobs with Live Nation and then Apple."

Jennie's ex Peter Facinelli and Jaimie Alexander divorce was final in June. They're parents of Luca, 16, Lola, 10, and Fiona, 7.

As The ENQUIRER reported, Facinelli – who starred in "The Twilight Saga" franchise – met actress Jaimie Alexander, 29, while they were filming "Loosies" in 2010. According to a source, they fell for one another in 2011 on the set of Showtime's "Nurse Jackie," and the two recently vacationed with his daughters in Cancun, Mexico.

"Although Peter's happy that Jennie has found somebody, he's a little jealous," said the source. "Michael may not be Hollywood handsome, but he's very successful."

SHIMBO, WHO ALSO FOUNDED AN interactive video channel called Planes Trains + Automobiles, accompanied Jennie to a recent roast for actor James Franco. And the couple double-dated with Jennie's former "90210" co-star Shannen Doherty.

Shimbo was also photographed with Jennie at her daughters' soccer practice.

Amid talk of Facinelli, 39, cheating on Jennie, the two split. They both denied a third party was involved but their

Jailbird Simpson is afraid the incriminating items could end up in the hands of strangers

O.J. Simpson's HOUSE OF HORRORS

"He said he has confessed many times to friends over the years – but never in writing. He believes these pages would shock the world!"

Now O.J. is apparently living in fear that the incriminating items could end up in the hands of strangers.

"He knows the law prohibits him from being tried again for the murders, but that's not why he is sweating," said the insider. "O.J's in denial about how people really perceive him and still doesn't see himself as a bad guy. Even in prison, he's concerned about his image.

"HE ALSO KNOWS HE COULD SELL those hidden items for megabucks when he gets out of prison. That's probably what's eating at him the most."

But the house may not even be there by the time he's released.

"The place is falling apart," said the insider.

When Simpson went to prison in 2008, he put his daughter Arnelle, now 44, in charge of the house, but she didn't have the money to keep it up, "and finally it all went to hell," said a close source. "By the time it was in foreclosure, there were huge leaks from a bad roof, and critters had moved in and made a mess."

Some of O.J.'s friends, who were thinking of buying the house to save it for him, checked it out "and told him it will most likely be knocked down," said the insider. "The land is valuable but the house is too far gone.

"O.J. said, 'My God! If that place is torn down, whoever buys it will find my stuff for sure, or workmen could carry it off.'

"It is all too much for O.J. His diabetes has flared up and he's way too heavy. Now the stress of all this has really gotten him down. I'm sure he doesn't have long to live."

ROT IN HELL!

REVEALED! Why Amanda Berry is relieved CLEVELAND KIDNAP MONSTER COMMITTED SUICIDE

TORTURED and raped for 10 years by twisted Ariel Castro, Amanda Berry has finally found peace now that the beast has hanged himself, her father told The ENQUIRER in an exclusive interview.

And she's especially comforted to know that her daughter Jocelyn will never have to face the fiend who fathered her again.

"Amanda is relieved that the monster is dead," Amanda's dad Johnny Berry told The ENQUIRER. "She's been living in constant fear that Jocelyn may someday have to see Castro, and she didn't want that ever to happen. The only regret I have is that I wanted to kill that bastard myself. But I'm glad he's dead. I hope he died real slow."

AMANDA, 27, AND HER fellow victims, Gina DeJesus, 23, and Michelle Knight, 32, survived imprisonment, repeated rapes, beatings and starvation as they lived chained up like animals in Castro's house of horrors.

Justice was served on Aug. 1 when Castro was sentenced to life in prison plus 1,000 years, but the perverted 52-year-old brute took the easy way out by hanging himself in his cell at the Correctional Reception Center in Orient, Ohio.

His Sept. 3 suicide sparked contempt from Cuyahoga County prosecutor Timothy J. McGinty, who said: "These degenerate monsters are cowards. This man couldn't take, for even a month, a small portion of what he had dished out for more than a decade."

The courageous women who survived years of torment at Castro's brutal hands were captured by him, one at a time, and held in his rundown house at 2207 Seymour Avenue in Cleveland.

They were gagged, beaten, forced to wear dog collars, raped and starved, with no chance of escape until Castro, a school bus driver and part-time musician, failed to secure the fortified front door of his home on May 6. That allowed Berry and her 6-year-old daughter to escape with the help of neighbors. Cops then rescued Gina and Michelle.

Ironically, Castro copped a plea to escape the executioner's needle. But facing an inescapable eternity in prison, he turned to the noose.

"When I first heard, I thought that maybe he got killed," Amanda's ailing 53-year-old dad told The ENQUIRER from his Elizabethton, Tenn., home. "Animals like him get taken out all the time in the prison system."

Johnny Berry, father of Cleveland kidnap victim Amanda Berry

But Castro did get a last word in. On Sept. 6, authorities released an interrogation tape of Castro's conversation with investigators. In it he revealed that he called Amanda's mom and said: "I have (your) daughter and she's my wife now."

Meanwhile, Johnny says that his brave daughter is doing fine.

"Amanda is a strong kid," said Johnny. "She still lives with (her sister) Beth and Beth's husband, who's a chef, in Cleveland.

"She is the best mom to Jocelyn. She has always home-schooled Jocelyn and is going to keep doing that for another year or two. Then she wants to go back to school herself and get back to her life." by MARTIN DRYAN tips@nationalenquirer.com and JOHN BLOSSER

ROSIE O'DONNELL backed out of a $5.6 million contract to buy singer Olivia Newton-John's stunning Florida mansion because she's afraid the house is haunted!

Despite signing on the dotted line to purchase the posh property in tony Jupiter Island, Fla., Rosie ditched the deal after learning that a hired contractor committed suicide in the home last month.

ROSIE WAS BUYING THE HOUSE for the mother of her wife, Michelle Rounds, whom the star married in 2012.

"The suicide happened just three days before closing, and Rosie immediately backed out," a source said. "Olivia and her husband, John Easterling, decided not to force her to honor the contract."

On Aug. 30, cops confirmed that Christopher Pariseleti, 42, shot himself to death in a back bedroom of the home. Olivia and her husband were away at the time.

Former "View" co-host Rosie has already had to deal with one spooky home. She owned the 22-room New York mansion that once belonged to actress Helen Hayes, and it was said to be haunted by the ghost of Helen's daughter Mary McArthur, who died of polio in 1949 at the age of 19.

> "Once Rosie heard about it, she dropped the house like a hot potato!"

Rosie also delved into the paranormal by asking psychic George Anderson to contact the spirit of her mother, who died from cancer when Rosie was 10. She insisted that he succeeded.

"The contractor's suicide was a horrible tragedy, but it happened in an area of the home that's not usually occupied and caused no damage," added the source. "Still, once Rosie heard about it, she dropped the house like a hot potato!"

LIBERACE'S GAY LOVER JAILED – after being kicked out of brothel

LIBERACE's ex-lover Scott Thorson is back in jail after testing dirty for methamphetamines and is now facing some hard prison time for his felony convictions of burglary and ID theft.

Thorson had been serving probation at the world-famous Moonlite Bunny Ranch brothel in Carson City, Nev., but was forced to leave, and "that was the beginning of the end," Bunny Ranch owner Dennis Hof told The ENQUIRER.

THORSON, 54, FACED UP TO 10 years in state prison for his crimes but dodged a bullet when the judge in Reno gave him 60 months of probation instead. He told The ENQUIRER: "Part of the terms of my probation was to enroll in drug court, and when I went before Judge Breen in early August, he told me he wanted me to live within Reno's city limits. So I went from living in the lap of luxury at the Bunny Ranch surrounded by beautiful women and medical personnel...to a downtown Reno-area extended-stay hotel ...where there are drug addicts roaming the streets at all hours of the night."

Prior to being arrested, Thorson kept busy working on a sequel to his book, "Behind the Candelabra," which was made into an Emmy-nominated HBO movie starring Michael Douglas as Liberace and Matt Damon as Thorson.

"Scott was hoping to attend the Emmy Awards later this month, but now it doesn't look like that is going to happen," said Hof. "Instead, he's going to have to watch them from his jail cell."

Brat Packer Andrew's BABY BOMBSHELL

FORMER Brat Packer Andrew McCarthy is adding to his pack of children at age 50 – but the prospect of resuming diaper duty has thrown him for a loop.

The "Pretty in Pink" and "Weekend at Bernie's" star calls his wife Dolores' pregnancy "fantastic news" but admits he's worried about being a senior dad.

"When I do the math, and I have, repeatedly, I will be nearing 70 – s-e-v-e-n-t-y – when my youngest child goes off to college," he says.

ANDREW, WHOSE CHILDREN Sam and Willow are 11 and 7, was dreaming about spending his golden years in peace and quiet. He planned on traveling and writing.

"It's just that I was looking forward to a little more time to be left with an empty nest," he recently wrote in a magazine article.

"These newly added years of child rearing on the horizon will swallow up nearly an entire decade."

Still, he's kept his sense of humor about it, joking: "I don't see this situation improving, as I now need longer naps than my children."

BUT ANDREW'S LACK OF enthusiasm is apparently no laughing matter to Dolores.

"She told him, 'How do you think I feel! I'm going to have to raise this baby too... not to mention give birth,'" said a close source.

Andrew, who tied the knot with his second wife Dolores just two years ago, would like to keep her happy.

But a New York City neighbor confided: "Andrew is really stressed about having a third child. He doesn't know how he's going to juggle it all."

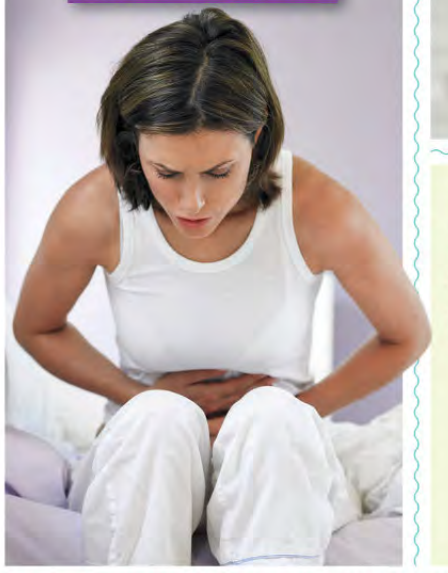
YOUR HEALTH by LISETTE HILTON & LAURIE MILLER

A new intravenous drug, vedolizumab, offers new hope for people with moderate-to-severe Crohn's disease and ulcerative colitis.

Researchers at the University of California, San Diego analyzed two international trials on both diseases which showed the use of vedolizumab resulted in remission and discontinued use of commonly prescribed prednisone and other conventional treatments.

In many ulcerative colitis cases, complete healing of the bowel was achieved.

NEW HELP FOR BOWEL DISEASES



AUTISM ALERT!

Expectant moms should be aware that inducing or augmenting labor might increase the risk of bearing a child with autism.

Researchers looked at the birth records of more than 625,000 children and found that, among males, labor that was both induced (contractions were stimulated) and augmented (contractions strengthened during labor) was linked to a 35 percent higher autism risk, compared with labor that received neither treatment.

"The findings of this study must be balanced with the fact that there are clear benefits associated with induction and augmentation of labor," says Dr. Chad A. Grotegut of Durham, N.C. "Labor induction, especially for women with post-date pregnancies or medical conditions such as diabetes and high blood pressure, has remarkably decreased the chance of stillbirth."

Protection from ANEURYSMS

A diet rich in fruits may decrease your risk of developing an aortic abdominal aneurysm – a ballooning of the lower part of the aorta, the largest artery in the body. If ruptured, it can be deadly.

In a large, long-running study of more than 80,000 people, Swedish researchers found that those who ate more than two servings of fruit daily had a 25 percent lower risk of the condition than those who ate less than one serving a day.

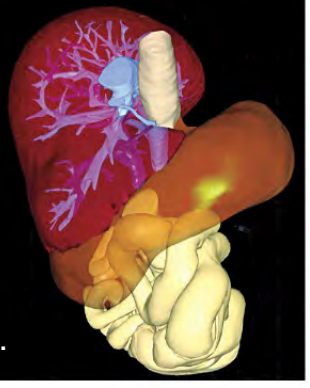
"A high consumption of fruits may help to prevent many vascular diseases," says Dr. Otto Stackelberg of Stockholm's famed Karolinska Institute.

SURPRISING NEW COFFEE BENEFIT

Coffee and tea are good for your liver.

A new investigation suggests that caffeine could reduce fat in the liver of people with non-alcoholic fatty liver disease – a condition that affects an estimated 30 percent of American adults.

In a pioneering study, researchers in the United States and Singapore theorize that the human equivalent of four cups of caffeinated coffee or tea daily stimulated the breakdown of fats found in the liver of mice, even though they were fed a high-fat diet.



Poor oral health CAN KILL

The health of your teeth and gums impacts your risk of oral human papillomavirus (HPV) infection, which causes up to 80 percent of cancers involving the tongue, tonsils and throat.

People with poor oral health have a 56 percent higher rate of infection than those with good oral health, according to a study from the University of Texas Health Sciences Center.

"The good news is this risk factor is modifiable," notes researcher Thanh Cong Bui. "By maintaining good oral hygiene and good oral health, one can prevent HPV infection and subsequent HPV-related cancers."

CRYPTOGRAM QUOTES

FAMOUS QUOTES FROM YOUR FAVORITE PEOPLE

Cryptograms are coded messages. To solve the Cryptogram, each coded letter must be replaced by the answer letter in the box overhead. When you solve the code for a letter, write the answer letter in the box everywhere the coded letter appears. Look for common words and letter patterns to break the code. Words like AND, I, THE and A are found frequently. Common word endings are ING, S and E.

LEN FELDMAN'S BEST BETS ON TV

What's hot this week

The Blacklist (New Show!)

Monday, Sept. 23, 10 p.m. ET, NBC

When most-wanted fugitive Raymond "Red" Reddington (James Spader) turns himself in to the FBI, rookie profiler Elizabeth "Liz" Keen's (Megan Boone) life is turned upside down. Red will help the FBI catch terrorist Ranko Zamani. But for reasons unknown, the only person Red will work with is Liz, who is about to get a crash course in thinking like a criminal mastermind. Reddington has compiled a "blacklist" of the most wanted criminals out there. And he'll help catch them all as long as Liz is his partner. Thanks to Spader's remarkably complex and sinisterly charismatic performance, plus a plethora of shocks, surprises and powerhouse suspense, "The Blacklist" is a red-hot roller coaster of chills and thrills.

The cast of Joss Whedon's new show

Marvel's Agents of S.H.I.E.L.D. (New Show!)

Tuesday, Sept. 24, 8 p.m. ET, ABC

Super-spies fight super-villains while keeping a watchful eye on everyone with extraordinary powers in this eye-popping action series from director/writer Joss Whedon ("The Avengers"). The adventure begins where "The Avengers" movie left off, after the battle of New York and Agent Phil Coulson's (Clark Gregg) death. Now Coulson is back (in the Marvel universe, anything's possible) and leading a new team of highly skilled operatives of the elite covert agency, S.H.I.E.L.D. (Strategic Homeland Intervention Enforcement and Logistics Division) to battle a mysterious enemy faction called The Rising Tide. Awesome to the extreme and with a definite "WOW!" factor, "S.H.I.E.L.D" delivers big-screen comic book excitement.

The Crazy Ones (New Show!)

Thursday, Sept. 26, 9 p.m. ET, CBS

Robin Williams is a literal Mad Man playing childlike advertising mogul Simon Roberts in this comic gem of a series. Aiding him is his more focused daughter Sydney (Sarah Michelle Gellar), who's trying to make a name for herself in the ad game – not easy when your dad's a kooky advertising legend. Tonight, Simon must prove to his biggest client that he still has it by getting a very difficult Kelly Clarkson (guest starring as herself) to agree to sing their ad jingle. Williams is a virtual laughter spout. Just tilt and pour and out comes the most hilarious things you've ever seen or heard. Comedy fans would be "crazy" to miss this one! James Wolk also stars.

Robin Williams and James Wolk

Ana Nogueira & Michael J. Fox

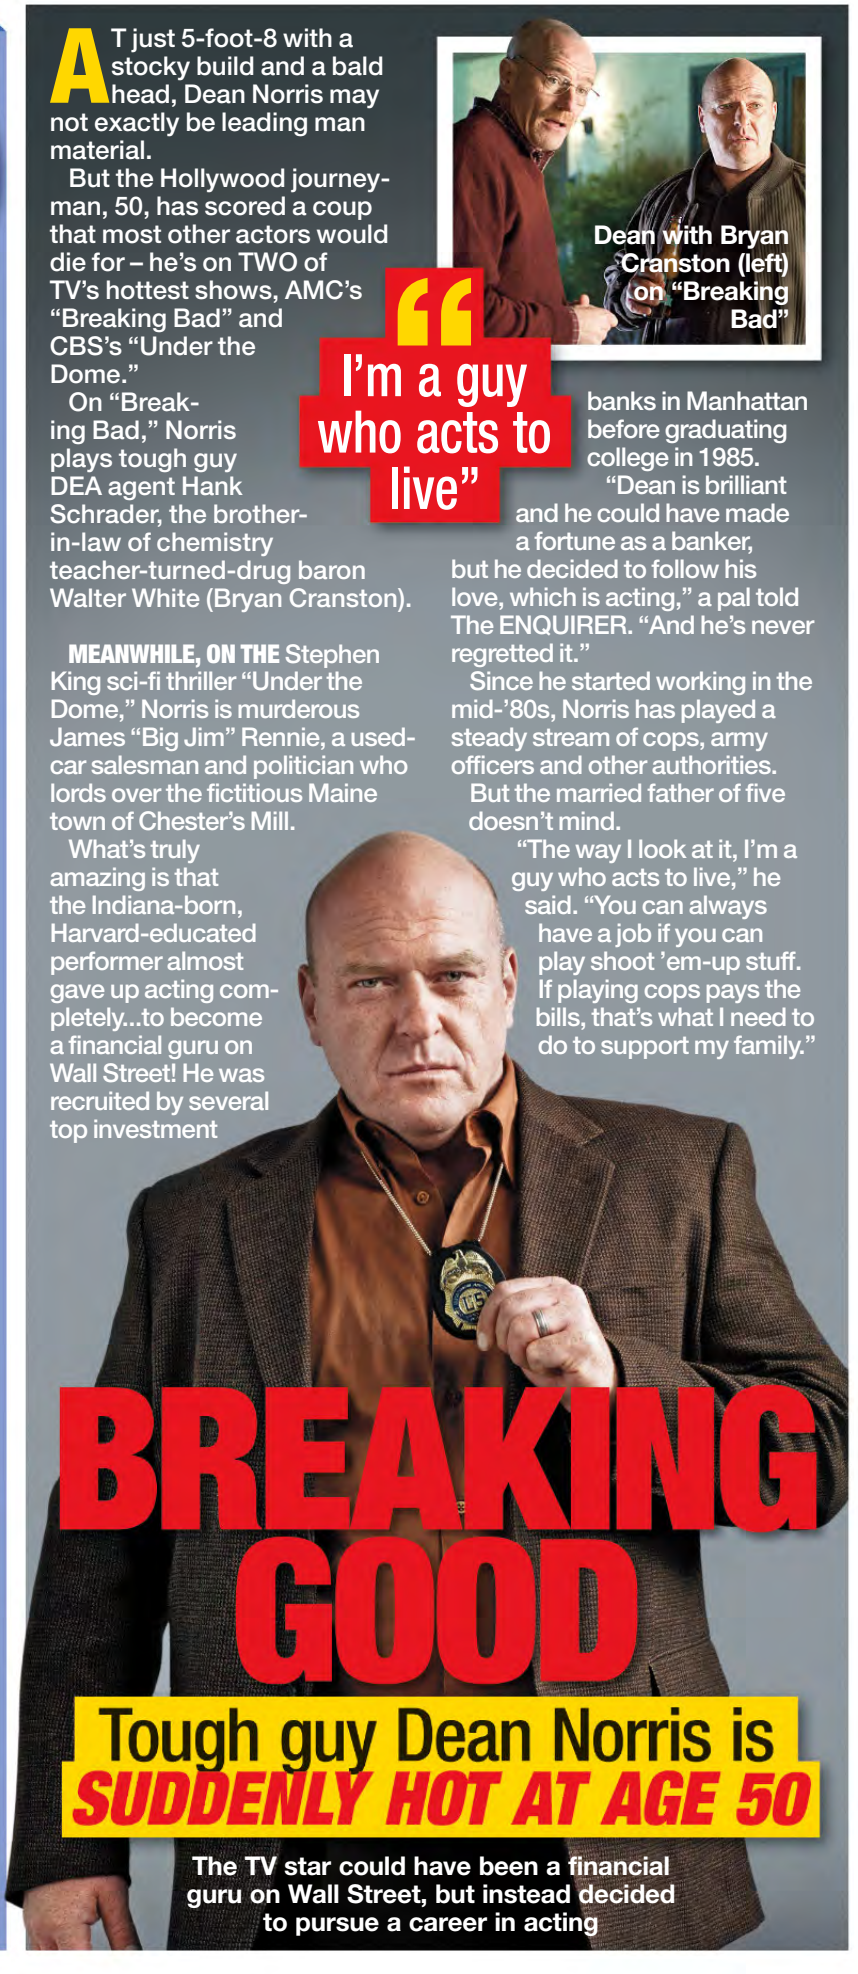
The Michael J. Fox Show (New Show!)

Thursday, Sept. 26, 9 p.m. ET, NBC

Comedy shows that star an actor with the same real-life affliction as their character's fictional malady can be a turnoff. But we're talking about Michael J. Fox here – a beloved actor with the comic charm to turn on the laughter in spite of his illness. And that he does in this daring sitcom about New York anchorman Mike Henry (Fox), who left the news following a diagnosis of Parkinson's disease. After five years of driving his family nuts as a stay-at-home dad, they arrange for Mike to "accidently" run into his old boss and be talked into a comeback in this warmly funny series. Ana Nogueira also stars.

BREAKING GOOD

Tough guy Dean Norris is SUDDENLY HOT AT AGE 50



The TV star could have been a financial guru on Wall Street, but instead decided to pursue a career in acting

AT just 5-foot-8 with a stocky build and a bald head, Dean Norris may not exactly be leading man material.

But the Hollywood journeyman, 50, has scored a coup that most other actors would die for – he's on TWO of TV's hottest shows, AMC's "Breaking Bad" and CBS's "Under the Dome."

On "Breaking Bad," Norris plays tough guy DEA agent Hank Schrader, the brother-in-law of chemistry teacher-turned-drug baron Walter White (Bryan Cranston).

MEANWHILE, ON THE Stephen King sci-fi thriller "Under the Dome," Norris is murderous James "Big Jim" Rennie, a used-car salesman and politician who lords over the fictitious Maine town of Chester's Mill.

What's truly amazing is that the Indiana-born, Harvard-educated performer almost gave up acting completely...to become a financial guru on Wall Street! He was recruited by several top investment banks in Manhattan before graduating college in 1985.

"Dean is brilliant and he could have made a fortune as a banker, but he decided to follow his love, which is acting," a pal told The ENQUIRER. "And he's never regretted it."

Since he started working in the mid-'80s, Norris has played a steady stream of cops, army officers and other authorities.

But the married father of five doesn't mind.

"The way I look at it, I'm a guy who acts to live," he said. "You can always have a job if you can play shoot 'em-up stuff. If playing cops pays the bills, that's what I need to do to support my family."

His first-ever figurine celebrates the razzle and dazzle of a Vegas extravaganza!

ENHANCED WITH SWAROVSKI

Figurine shown smaller than approximate size of 9" high

From 1974 through 1980, one of the hottest shows in Las Vegas was Hallelujah Hollywood — a $3 million tribute to Hollywood's grandest musicals! Behind-the-scenes, fashion/costume designer Bob Mackie created over 700 of the most glitzy, glamorous, show-stopping costumes the stage had ever seen, including one of his all-time favorites …

"Miss Tigerlily" is beautifully hand-sculpted and painted by hand!

Now, inspired by Mackie's original sketch, "Miss Tigerlily" takes center stage as his first-ever figurine! Every fabulous detail is brought to life through meticulous hand sculpting — from the gentle curves of each delicate petal on her hat and boa … to her form-hugging gown … to her frilly parasol. Hand-painted in lily-toned hues, she dazzkes with nearly 3 DOZEN GENUINE SWAROVSKI CRYSTALS!

Forgive & forget, ladies

How sad to read about Hillary Clinton and Barbra Streisand (Hillary & Barbra's Bitter Feud Explodes!, Aug. 19). These fine ladies achieved fame and fortune that most of us can only dream of. With such rewarding lives, forgiving and forgetting should be within the realm of possibility.

– Frances N., Richmond, Va.

Start with parenting

Is there any limit on how low John Edwards can go (John Gets Tough with Rebel Daughter, 15, Aug. 19)? Emma Claire is suffering because of the loss of her mother and the embarrassing acts of her father. If he wants to rehabilitate his image, he should start by parenting his daughter!

– Mary S., Long Beach, Calif.

$50 Letter of the Week

Kudos to kitty for saving family

"Furry Fire Hero" (Aug. 19) proves there's nothing dumb about animals. Many of them are smarter than some people. Bravo to Sergeant Pepper for alerting the Molland family to the fire in their basement. She should be quite proud of herself. I hope she got some extra treats for her good work!

– Rosemary G., Hatfield, Pa.

4			2		8			9
	8	2				4
	1		3		9		6

HOW TO PLAY

You must fill in every empty square in the Sudoku grid. There's no right way of going about this, but there is only ever one solution. The big grid is split into nine mini-grids. There are nine rows running left to right and nine columns running down. In every row, you must have each of the numbers 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8 and 9. These can be in any order. The same applies to columns and mini-grids: place every number 1 through 9 in each column and in each mini-grid.

Sean Cunnane sits atop his fire engine bed that was constructed by the Tulsa Firefighters Local 176

KID GETS FIRE STATION – in his home

Bighearted heroes MAKE DREAM COME TRUE FOR AILING TEEN

YOUNG, cerebral palsy-stricken Sean Cunnane always dreamed of being a fireman and living in a firehouse, but his ailment made that impossible.

So the bighearted firefighters from Tulsa, Okla., brought the firehouse to him.

Working during their free time and using donated funds and materials, the firefighters spent three months turning the 13-year-old's room at home into a replica of a firehouse, complete with a fire engine bed!

"We wanted to do what we could to make Sean's dream come true," said John Smith of Tulsa Firefighters Local 176.

Sean even has a locker with firefighter gear

THE TEEN WAS SO excited about the major renovations going on in his room that he stayed away from it during construction so he could be surprised.

"He absolutely is obsessed with firefighting," said his mom Kris.

When the room was finally ready, Sean could hardly contain himself. Like a child on his first Christmas morning, his eyes sparkled with wonder as he surveyed every inch.

The walls are a deep red, and firefighting equipment is prominently displayed on shelves. One entire wall is covered in old photos supplied by the department.

But it is the spectacular centerpiece that left Sean in complete awe. His bed is now positioned atop a replica of a fire engine that was built by the volunteers.

Asked what he liked the most about his room, Sean said: "Everything!"

Despite his ailment, Sean was able to climb the steps up the "fire engine" to reach his bed. Meanwhile, the men who put it all together watched with pride as he held the rail and came back down.

Firefighter John Smith with Sean

"He just makes us all want to be better people"

To create Sean's own personal firehouse, the firemen tapped a donation from the Wishgivers organization and got to work. They had to do a partial renovation to the house, combining two rooms into one and removing a closet. And they filled the extra space with donated furniture.

"A LOT OF US HAVE JOBS ON our days off, and a lot work in construction," said Smith. "We had different skills to bring to it."

Sean has gotten a tremendous boost from his new "fire headquarters." And his happiness has also given the smoke-eaters a tremendous lift.

"He just makes us all want to be better people," said Smith.

The amazing transformation of Sean's room comes on top of another blessing. Walking aids have improved his ability to get around. The aids stimulate his leg muscles by applying a small electric charge when his legs are extended, and that allows him to walk in a more normal stride.

Sean's delighted mom Kris reports he's getting "better and better all the time."
